

Read-While Loops Project Brief

Scenario

You are tasked with setting up the folder structure for a shared network drive, and have been given a text file, `folders_to_create.txt`, which contains a list of directory names that need to be created.

You need to create a script that will read the text file, and create all these folders.

Advice: Test this script from within a new empty folder -- it can get a bit messy!

Your Task

Step 1: Then, you will need to create a read-while loop which will process a file and create all of the directories.

Step 2: Your script should allow the user to enter the path to the `folders_to_create.txt` file as a command line argument.

Hint: Beware of Word Splitting!
